Meet the crew

The Global ANSWER project is formed by a diverse group formed by organisations, Universities, and public services from three different countries (Italy, Spain and Sweden), joined in the aim of studying the immigration practices.

This huge diversity causes that inside the project the crew has different perspectives or ways of understanding how migration is being treated in Europe, from historians to social workers, Global ANSWER is made of these different views, that's why in this part of the Global ANSWER webpage you can get more information about our team.

What are their thoughts about migration in their native countries? How their career can let them contribute to the Global ANSWER project? Why these kind of projects are important? These and more questions are answered in the links below.
